

COMMON TECHNIQUE OF SHADOW
BOUNDARY CONTOURING

*S. P. Anokhov, R. A. Lymarenko,
M. S. Soskin<sup>1</sup>, A. I. Khizhnyak<sup>2</sup>*

International Center "Institute of Applied Optics",
Nat. Acad. Sci. of Ukraine
(10 G, Kudryavska Str., Kyiv 04053, Ukraine),

<sup>1</sup>Institute of Physics, Nat. Acad. Sci. of Ukraine
(46, Nauky Prosp., Kyiv 03028, Ukraine),

<sup>2</sup>Metrolaser Inc.
(18010 Skypark Circle, Suite 100, Irvine,
CA 92614-6428, USA)

S u m m a r y

Imaging capabilities of the singular component of a field, which formed by diffraction of a plane wave by an arbitrary aperture, are analyzed. It is shown that the ability to keep the form of the aperture is a special feature of the considered component. The possible applications of this phenomenon are discussed.