

ON SOME FEATURES OF PLASMA DISCHARGE
ABOVE WATER SURFACE

V.B. Yuferov, E.V. Mufel, V.I. Tkachov, S.V. Sharyi, A.N. Shapoval

National Science Center
“Kharkov Institute of Physics and Technology”,
Nat. Acad. of Sci. of Ukraine
(1, Akademicheskaya Str., Kharkov 61108, Ukraine;
e-mail: v.yuferov@kipt.kharkov.ua)

S u m m a r y

We have created an experimental installation which allows one to produce autonomous spherical plasma formations. The processes that occur at the initial discharge stage have been studied, and two possible scenarios of their development have been described. The current-voltage and spectral characteristics of plasmoids, as well as photos of the discharge development in time, are presented.