

APPLICATION OF A HETERODYNE LASER
SYSTEM TO DETERMINE PARAMETERS OF TURBULENT ATMOSPHERE

R. Vildanov, G. Eshonqulov

Department of Physics,
National University of Uzbekistan (Vuzgorodok, Tashkent 100174, Uzbekistan;
e-mail: optic@nuuz.uzsci.net)

S u m m a r y

The use of a heterodyne laser system in atmospheric measurements has been proposed. The continuous registration of optical phase variations of radiation propagating in the atmospheric channel has been carried out. From recorded data, the integral characteristics of a turbulence state in the radiation propagation channel are obtained.