

INTERACTION OF DNA WITH SILVER NANOPARTICLES

*G.M. Glibitskiy¹, V.V. Jelali², M.O. Semenov¹,
A.D. Roshal³, D.M. Glibitskiy¹, O.Yu. Volyanskiy², G.G. Zegrya⁴*

¹A.Ya. Usikov Institute of Radiophysics and Electronics,
Nat. Acad. of Sci. of Ukraine
(12, Acad. Proscury Str., Kharkiv 61085, Ukraine; e-mail: glibit@ukr.net),

²I.I. Mechnikov Institute of Microbiology and Immunology, Acad. of Med. Sci. of Ukraine
(14, Pushkinska Str., Kharkiv 61057, Ukraine),

³V.N. Karazin Kharkiv National University,
Institute for Chemistry
(4, Svobody Sq., Kharkiv 61077, Ukraine),

⁴A.F. Ioffe Physical-Technical Institute,
Russian Academy of Sciences
(26, Polytekhnicheskaya Str., St. Petersburg 194021, Russian Federation)

S u m m a r y

The dehydrational self-organization of DNA with Na⁺ and Ag⁺ ions and silver nanoparticles has been studied. It has been shown that the character of the formation of dendritic textures (the size of the area occupied on the film surface) is governed by the conformational state of DNA.